Look IN

- You are being restored to the image in which you were created

A dramatic image of Earth from space, showing a large, bright light source (likely the sun) in the upper right corner, creating a strong lens flare effect. A black cross is positioned near the light source, with a beam of light extending from it towards the Earth. The Earth's surface is visible, showing continents and oceans. The overall scene is set against a dark background.
